APPENDIX.

"Should any father or mother, in consequence of the idleness, dissipation or extravange of his or her child or children, apprehend that his, her or their estate will be squandered if left to their management or control, it shall be lawful for such father or mother, by last will and testament, to leave such estate in the hands of trustees, to be appointed by said will, which trustees shall have the entire management and control of said estate, the profit of which, after deducting expenses of said management, shall be paid over to the child or children entitled to the same for his, her or their maintenance and support; and it shall be lawful, at any time, for the court of probate in the county where such estate may be situated, or where such trustee or trustees may reside, to take cognizance of the same and to remove such trustee or trustees from the management of the same: Provided, It shall be made to appear that such estate is being wasted or improperly managed; and to appoint other trustees for the management thereof, taking bond and security from such trustees in a sum at least equal to the value of such estate for the faithful performance of the trust; and, if the child or children entitled to such estate, or any part thereof shall, at any time, make it appear to the satisfaction of said court that the causes for leaving said estate in trust no longer exist, and that there is no danger of its being squandered by idleness, dissipation or extravagance, it shall be the duty of said court to dissolve said trust, and place the said estate in the hands of the person or persons who would have been entitled to the same had such trust not been created."

Revised Statutes of Arizona, 1901, Paragraph 4232, Section 21.